As it is in all of our Evaluation Nights, I feel it is important to stay on point when preparing your theme; hence the reason for the above Dictionary description.

Searching the internet for Connections pertaining to direct association in images was a challenge. I looked through images on the following page and found that some truly appeared representational to the theme but others that left me cold with either the actual concept falling flat or the ability to connect to the photograph itself.

Some of the greatest examples of people connecting are found here:

You will have to have patience to watch the slow slide show but many of the pictures, both wedding and other, show such great connection between people.

Better Photo.com has 11 images which relate directly to Connections as a Theme. Have a look here:

In regards to web related articles on connections as the subject matter to themes, you will find that the majority relate to how you can connect with your target audience. This is not necessarily the same as images which relate to connections.

The theme connections is certainly a challenge but does encourage us to be prepared for the Fraser Valley Invitational!
