

Ian MacDonald

Ian MacDonald is an Official Fuji X Photographer based out of Vancouver, BC, Canada. His work is candid and documentary in nature, with a focus on street, travel and candid wedding photography. Ian has also been an educator for over twenty years, currently offering group street photography workshops, private one on one photography workshops and photography education online with students around the world. Collaborating with others and building relationships within the photography community are central themes for Ian, and he loves the process of photography as much as he does the art that he creates.

You can find info on the presentation here:

<https://ianmacdonaldphotography.com/finding-creativity-what-ptsd-taught-me-about-photography/>